The Late F. L. Smith.

The following remarks were made by Mr. H. O. Claughton upon the presentation of the resolutions of respect to the memory of the late F. L. Smith, esq., to the Circuit Court of the Corporation ;-

We are called upon to mourn the loss of a good man, and to pay tribute to the virtues and ability of one of the most honored of our profession. Since the close of the war death has been very busy with our little circle, and in this, as in other cases has been true to his

When I was a youth I occasionally attended the sessions of the United States Circuit Court for the County of Alexandria, held in this city. It was here that I first knew Mr. Smith. He was then in the pride of his manhood and in the vigor of his intellect. As the associate and competitor of Walter Jones, James M. Caritsie, Joseph H. Bradley, Philip R. Fendali, Henry Winter Davis and others-for there were giants in those days-he was distinguished for his manly graces, professional devotion, subtle reasoning and persuasive eloquence. With the seit reliance of protound conviction-not yet affected by that experience which teaches distrust of all legal conclusions, he was oold without dogmatism, and aggressive without temeri ty. If I were easited upon to state what I considered the striking characteristic of Mr. Smith as a lawyer I should say that it was the power of apprehending the whole strength and force of his side of the case, and the faculty of ignoring the neved he felt all that he said, and the Smith could fail to be struck by the zeal and criticism with which he exposed the weakness of the other side. He always became thoroughsurprising that Mr. Smith was a successful front rank of his profession; successful in reaping the true substantial rewards of his merit. But time does not permit me to dwell upon the professional quaities of the lamented deceased. Let the same be meted out to them, and joy I now turn to contemplate him in those relations and qualities in which he was a model. I had no superior, and where shall we find his peer? Though not intimately acquainted with Mr. Smith in the most sacred of these relations, I should have been unobservant indeed if I had not seen enough of his domestic virtues to com-

MacVeagh to Butler. Mr. Wayne MacVeagh, of Philadelphia, has addressed the following letter to General B. F. Butler, in reply to the letter from General Butler to Marshal Pitkin, of New Cricans, published in the New York Times:-

PHILADELPHIA, May 29, 1877. Sir: I have just read your latter in the New York Times. Your "informant" happens to have told you the exact opposite of the truth in every statement respecting me.

Colonel Wharton did not aid me at New Orleans, but was one of the adherents of the Pack. ard government to the end. He did not manage or transact any kind of business for me. He did not receive any promise from me in respect to any office. I have not asked the president to appoint him marshal. So much for that portion of your letter. Where I am known I do not need to deny the silly story about the use of money, or to declara cowardly falsehood. For those who do not know me perhaps I ought to add that apart from any repugance on my part to the crime there were two practical difficulties in the way of my committing it: I had no money of my own to spare, and it is only a military commandant of New Orleans in time of war who can safely ap-

The fact is that the enemies of reconciliation in Louisiana waste their time in trying to discover or invent some kind of bargain with which at once to account for its success and to discredit it. Strange as it may seem to some of them, political results are still attainable in thiscountry by straightforward and honest methods; thirty degrees, and for counter weight two cars and the country will judge the result we secured by its fruits in comparison with the fruits of the opposite policy-comparing the four years to the caisson, leaded, goes down towards the river Club of Washington. come of honest and lawful government with the eight years just ended of hatred, intimidation, outrage, corruption, anarchy and murder.

Therefore, from the bitterness of good men misguided and of bad men disappointed, 1 appear to the generous judgment of the American people, and I await their decision upon the subect of our labors in Louisiana, not with misgivngs or excuses, but with confidence and pride.
Yours truly, WAYNE MACVEAGH

Accident at the Ontlet Lock.

Brief montion was made in yesterday's Gazette of the accident at the new outlet lock above the Baltimore Sun:-

A terrible and fatal accident occured yesterday morning at the new outlet lock, a mile above the Aquedect bridge in Georgetown, by which Mr. John W. Moad, assistant harbor master of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, was instantly killed, and two employes-Sylvester Carroll, aged 17 years, and Michael Reynolds, aged 60 years, were severely if not fatally injured, the former having both legs broken and sustaining an injury to his left arm, and the latter having his right leg crushed below the knee Carroll resides at Foxhall's place, near Green Springs, and Reynolds at the corner of first and Lingan streets Georgetown. The facts of the case, so far as they could be ascertained by our reporter, are as follows:—A canal boat loaded with coal was passed into the caisson at this outlet, preparatory to being low-ered into the river. The caisson is lowered on a railway and inclined plane at an angle of about loaded with two hundred and fifty tons of stone are placed on rails each side the caisson. As these cars ascend. Some slight signs of weak-ness were noticed in the machinery this morn-ing while the caisson, with its boat, was being lowered, and the attention of the person in charge of the engine having been called to it, he immediately and suddenly brought the engines to a stop. It is supposed that this sudden stoppage caused an unnatural strain on the ropes breaking them and precipitating the cars and caisson to the foot of the railways. The boat was not injured, and passed to the river with its occupants in safety. One of the cars in its descent struck Mr. Mend, who was walking behind it in its accent, and when the ropes broke he had not time to get out of its course. It is supposed that the other sufferers were injured machinery is more or less injured. Large cog wheels of cast iron, bolts, rods and bars are scattered over the scene in great confusion. The body of Mr. Mead was recovered with difficulty, it being covered by the debris to a depth of four or five feet. His right leg was terribly mangled, and he had a severe cut penetrating the skull. He was also injured internally.

Mr. Meal was an old and respected citizen of Capitol Hill, and, with his family, resided on Sixth street, near B, southeast. He was an ironworker by trade and for the past two or three years had been employed in the canal effice at Georgetown and on the Georgetown division of the Cherapeake and Onic Canal. He was about fity-five years of age, and in old times was ac-tive in the volunteer fire department, and was also a member of the old Washington Light Infantry. 11o represented the Fifth Ward several times in the Board of Common Council, and for many years was assessor of the ward. It appears that a safety brake had been removed from the calesons several days since, and for some reason had not been replaced. Two boats passed in safety this morning through the outlet, and no cause is assigned for the necident which overtook the third best. Michael Reynolds was sent to Providence Hospital, and Sylvester Carroll was taken to his home. Both were attended by Dr. Ritchie. The accident will be a serious drawback to the Company, as most of the machinery is complete-wrecked. Since the above was written, both of Carroll's legs were amputated, and he only survived the operation about an hour.

COLUMBIA FIRE ENGINE. - The Columbia Steam Fire Engine has been entirely overhauled and handsomely refitted. The old wooden jacker, which had become broken and decayed, has been removed, and a very handsome new one, of Russia iron, pur on by Messrs. Stans-bury & Bro., of this city. The jacket is surrounded by three beautifully finished brass bands, which add much to the appearance of the engine. Besides the jacket and bands there have been put upon the engine a new whistle, a set of self-feeding oil cups, and a glass water gauge. The entire machine has been doug Campbell, and when tried, a day or two since, worked to the entire satisfaction of those in charge of her. A large portion of the funds expended in the repairs were raised by the late reading given by Prof. Scharff for the Company.

DROWNED .- A boy named Wm. N. Dockstader aged about fourteen years, and the son of the Assistant Librarian at the Congressional Library, was drowned at Four Mile run yesterday evening. The boy and a companion, with the upele of the latter, went in swimming. Willie could not swim, but undertook to cross the conal by supporting himself between hi two companions. When part way over Willie became frightened, and feeling that he was sinking clutched at his older companion to save himself. In this way the three became demoralized and separated, and Willie was drowned. Steamer Express, Baltimore, to Jos Broders | The body was recovered about two bours afterwards and carried to Washington. It is a singular fact that on every M-morial Day for three years past somebody has been drowned at the Four Mile run.

WEAKLY AND SICKLY PERSONS. - Many persons who are weak and sickly at this season of the year are at a loss to know what will restore their health. It has lately been found by experience that the use of Speer's Port Grape Wine is one of the best restoratives known. Physicians, clergymen and temperance advocates should encourage the use of Port Grape and thus aid the cause of temperance and moderation. It is especially recommended to famil ies for its purity, exquisite flavor and healthy properties Medical men certify to its valuable powers. traditional love for a shining mark. It is not my purpose to make use of this sad dispensation as an occasion for indulging in formal eulogy or high sounding panegyriesuch a perversion of the proprieties of this memorial hour would be more than useless and searcely less than sacrilige. The occasion is too it to be, as you well know it to be, a base and solemn-too sacred to be descerated by un meaning rhotoric or fulsome adulation. Deathdeath has stalked into our midst, laid his icy hand upon the proudest form of you all, and borne him along his terrible way-and we Su all never again see the familiar face in the land c. the living!
